Expanding Impact Investing through Public Policy

The Accelerating Impact Investing Initiative (AI3) was launched in 2013 to spark a national conversation about the federal government’s role in improving and expanding the market for impact investments in the United States.

AI3 is a cross-sector coalition of investors, researchers, philanthropic organizations, practitioners and policy experts with three main objectives:

- Research & Thought Leadership: Through original research and timely analysis, identify the policy changes necessary to meaningfully grow the market for domestic impact investing.

- Coalition Building: Convene a diverse array of stakeholders to identify high-priority policy opportunities, then collectively engage policymakers to encourage real policy changes.

- Policy Implementation: Work with investors, practitioners and other stakeholders in the field to build the market infrastructure necessary to put policy changes into action.
