Krista Egger is senior director of initiatives at Enterprise Community Partners. With more than a decade of experience leading energy efficiency initiatives with affordable housing stakeholders, Krista manages Enterprise's national Green Initiative. She led the technical development and public roll-out of the 2015 Enterprise Green Communities Criteria, provides strategic oversight for the Enterprise Green Communities Certification program and leads Enterprise's Health Action Plan framework which pairs public health professionals with affordable housing development teams. Krista also manages the development and delivery of a suite of associated trainings, tools, grants and initiatives.

Previously, Krista directed Advanced Energy's Affordable Housing business unit, which provides programmatic and building science expertise. She led the award-winning guaranteed-performance SystemVision program and consulting services with Habitat for Humanity International, NeighborWorks and utility clients.
