Charlotte Crow is the senior vice president of the Enterprise Community Loan Fund, responsible for raising capital, investor relations, cash management and general treasury functions. She brings 25 years of banking, finance and treasury experience to her role.

Prior to joining Enterprise in May 2006, Charlotte spent 14 years at Signet Bank in Richmond, Virginia, where she was in charge of the asset and liability management group and served as a member of the Asset and Liability Committee. Toward the end of her tenure with Signet, she reported to the vice chairman and was responsible for enterprise-wide risk management, the development of transfer pricing and shareholder value performance measurement methodologies. Subsequently, she held senior finance positions with two start-up finance companies in the Baltimore area. Charlotte also worked for Vertis, Inc., a $2 billion, highly leveraged public company where she managed all treasury functions, including debt management, investor relations and cash management.

Charlotte received a bachelor's degree in economics and psychology from Kenyon College and completed her Master of Business Administration at the College of William and Mary with a concentration in finance.
