

Ed Brady

President and CEO

Home Builders Institute

Enterprise Community Partners Board

Before being appointed president and CEO of HBI in 2018, Ed led a multi-million home building and development company doing work in Illinois and Tennessee. He holds his Tennessee contractor's license. A second-generation home builder, growing up in the business he first learned carpentry from a union master carpenter in college.

Ed was the National Association of Home Builders 2016 chairman, after serving as president of his local and state organizations. Following the 2008 financial crisis, he served on the Bipartisan Policy Center Housing Commission, working with other leading experts to advance the nation's housing policy. In 2009, he was elected and currently serves as a director of the Chicago Federal Home Loan Bank, as well as on the Board of Enterprise Community Partners, a leading affordable housing organization. He has served on boards for Illinois Habitat for Humanity and on other economic development and housing-related boards. Ed holds a bachelor's degree in political business from Illinois Wesleyan University.