PURPOSE

Criminal justice reform is the most pressing civil rights issue of our day. At the end of 2020, there were nearly 2 million people living in prison or jail in the U.S. It is estimated that more than three times that many people (more than 6 million) live under correctional control (i.e., living in jail or prison, on parole, or on probation). This is in addition to the 5 million formerly incarcerated people and the 100 million people with a criminal record living in the U.S. Moreover, the criminal legal system disproportionately impacts people with low-incomes and communities of color. This is driven in part by historical, discriminatory policies and discretionary processes throughout the U.S. criminal legal system – from disparities in policing practices and arrest, through pretrial bail decisions, to disposition, sentencing, and parole determinations. The impacts of legal system involvement are far reaching and extending across neighborhoods and generations - and can have particularly lasting consequences that make it difficult to afford and access housing. People with a history of justice involvement experience a range of barriers in the housing market, especially as it relates to housing discrimination, income instability, and family reunification.

Housing as a foundational element of wellbeing has the potential to disrupt harmful cycles including interactions with the criminal legal system and recidivism. It presents the opportunity to make a true difference at the intersection of housing and criminal legal reform; an opportunity that is core to Enterprise Community Partners’ commitment of dismantling the enduring legacy of systemic racism in housing through increased access, as well as building platforms of upward mobility.

The state of Ohio has over 20,000 individuals – including a disproportionate number of people of color – that are released back into the community after cycling through the state correctional system and the local jails. Many are facing significant barriers and restrictive housing policies when trying to access safe and stable housing. Enterprise Ohio’s justice housing initiatives seek to address these housing barriers impacting the lives of justice involved individuals. Through convening and collaborating with partners, we are identifying effective housing models and solutions so that men and women have access to safe, stable homes and the appropriate services as they return to their communities to rebuild their lives. Having developed solid partnerships with community-based organizations, local government and other key stakeholders to affect housing solutions, this work can be an opportunity to make meaningful impacts at the intersection of housing and criminal justice reform.

Enterprise Community Partners, Inc. (Enterprise) has initiated a Request for Proposal (RFP) for a Consultant to work with Enterprise’s Justice Housing Senior Program Officer and make recommendations for the most effective strategies for Enterprise to use our experience and expertise as an intermediary to support justice involved housing providers and housing developers and organizations that provide housing related services.

Project Overview

Enterprise’s national program, Housing as a Pathway to Justice, is a critical effort to leverage access to housing and appropriate services to support reentry from incarceration. Working collaboratively with our community partners, we strategize to reduce barriers to accessing housing and help in turn, reduce recidivism. Ohio and several Enterprise markets across the country are investing resources in our national Housing Justice program to address the housing crisis for justice involved individuals. The partnership between the local and national Enterprise teams provides support and direction to the local work on the ground and provides a critical level of expert input into the process.

Enterprise Ohio has been collaborating with local partners by convening meetings and leading and managing committees, projects, and programs that are identifying housing barriers and conditions, and also identifying housing opportunities for the justice involved populations. This work has resulted in a ground swell of reports and research that has been produced in Cuyahoga County that speak to the barriers justice involved individuals have trying to access decent, affordable housing and to the opportunities of producing housing units, developing new partnerships and leveraging funding that would support a solid foundation and upward mobility for thousands of men, women, and their families.

Convening a cross-sector steering committee, Enterprise Ohio led the development of the Eight Point Justice Housing Plan and Implementation Strategy for Cuyahoga County’s Office of Reentry in 2022. The housing plan is a set of recommended strategies to provide housing and housing related services to justice involved individuals. The development of the plan also provided an opportunity for a “Justice Housing” pilot to be implemented in 2023 in partnership with a local housing provider and is being evaluated for sustainability, scalability, and duplication. Additional collaborations with stakeholders have resulted in the development and publication of the following reports from 2018 to 2022:

1. System + Asset Map Report of Cuyahoga County services for justice involved individuals
2. Cuyahoga County Reentry Housing Needs and Opportunity Report
3. A-Never-Ending-Sentence
4. A Tale of Two Markets

Additional justice housing work includes co-chairing the Justice Housing Sub-Committee and supporting its two work groups under the Greater Cleveland Reentry Coalition.

   b. Each party maintains an express duty to minimize the disruption caused by Force Majeure, and shall, as soon as reasonably practicable, give notice to the other party of the nature and impact of the Force Majeure. Should Force Majeure events delay Contractor’s completion of the Deliverables and performance commitments, Contractor may be entitled to an extension for the time for completion subject to any supporting funding requirements. Any extension must be approved in writing by Enterprise. Should a Force Majeure event prevent Contractor from completing Deliverables or performing commitments under this Contract, the completion or performance shall be suspended for only the time and to the extent commercially practicable to restore normal operations. Further, Contractor and Enterprise shall endeavor to continue to perform their contractual obligations to the extent reasonably practicable and will work to adjust Deliverables or performance commitments as needed to continue the provision of services during the Force Majeure event.
