The Honorable Jack Reed
Ranking Member
Subcommittee on Transportation,
Housing and Urban Development,
And Related Agencies
Senate Committee on Appropriations
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Chair Collins and Ranking Member Reed:

We write to respectfully request that as your Subcommittee works to complete its FY 2018 Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Related Agencies appropriations bill, you support a funding level of $35 million for the Department of Housing and Urban Development's (HUD) Section 4 Capacity Building for Community Development and Affordable Housing Program.

The Section 4 program allows HUD to partner with national nonprofit community development organizations to provide education, training, and financial support to local community development corporations (CDCs) across the country. Section 4 funds are required by law to be matched 3:1 with private investments, but program funds have consistently leveraged substantially higher amounts. For each dollar of Section 4 funding, a total of $20 or more in private investment has been brought into local communities for economic and community development. From 2012 to 2016, Section 4 helped nearly 1,100 local CDCs located in all 50 states and the District of Columbia leverage more than $6.8 billion for community and economic development and build or preserve more than 41,000 homes in low-income neighborhoods. The targeted federal investments made through Section 4 attract and accelerate private sector involvement and funding into critical local community development projects.

Since the HUD Demonstration Act was authorized in 1993, Section 4 has proven to be a valuable and cost-effective program that has produced tangible results. Through a nation-wide support network, Section 4 provides programmatic and training assistance to local organizations, ensuring program goals are met while granting the necessary flexibility to meet community-specific needs. As communities across the country continue to look for ways to expand economic development and provide affordable housing, funding for Section 4 remains critically important.

As the Subcommittee works through the process of determining how to effectively appropriate federal funds, it is our hope that you will continue your support for Section 4 in FY 2018. We thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Joe Donnelly
United States Senator
