Rezility: Empowering People to Engage, Connect and Thrive in Their Communities

In our efforts to go beyond housing and connect residents to opportunity, we sought to answer several questions:

- What if we could help remove the stigma of seeking help by empowering residents to find help themselves?
- What if we could help housing and service providers engage with residents in more meaningful and effective ways?
- What if we could leverage advances in technology to meet these goals?

Rezility is our answer to those questions. It is the only personalized, mobile-first, socially powered platform that empowers people to find and connect to relevant services where they live and work. Rezility pilots are performing well, with 50 percent user retention among the initial user groups in New York and Cleveland, with expansions planned soon in both areas.

The platform includes a free resident-focused mobile app as well as a powerful partner portal that enables housing and service providers to engage and connect with residents.

And now Rezility has a new website packed with highly specialized resources for our three primary users: housing providers, service providers and residents.
