David Rowe is an Executive Vice President for CAMBA/CAMBA Housing Ventures, Inc. Founded in 1977, CAMBA annually provides services to more than 45,000 individuals and families in six core areas: Economic Development; Education and Youth Development; Family Support; Health; Housing; and Legal Services. Responding to a pressing need for permanent, affordable housing, CAMBA Housing Ventures, Inc. – a non-profit development corporation affiliate was established in 2005 to create sustainable and energy-efficient housing for low-income and chronically homeless families and individuals. Since joining CHV in 2008, David has significantly expanded the organization's portfolio to include a total of 2,026 completed and in-progress affordable housing units located throughout NYC. David has over 20 years of experience in affordable housing, as a developer, and a lender in both public and private sectors.

Steven Lewis is a tireless advocate for social justice and diversity within the field of architecture. In his role as Urban Design Director for the City of Detroit's Central Region, he is helping to shape the vision of present and future development. In addition to being a AIA 2016 Whitney M. Young, Jr. Award recipient, a Loeb Fellow in 2006-2007, and a past President of the National Organization of Minority Architects, Steven has also recently launched a consulting practice – “Thinking Leadership – What we Do...Who we Are” – aimed at assisting clients attain superior outcomes through his engagement. More than anything, Steven is a facilitator of partnerships and alliances between groups and individuals who seek to use architecture and design to effect positive change to our world.

Shawn Rickenbacker is an Associate Professor of Architecture and Director of the J. Max Bond Center for Urban Futures of City College of New York, Spitzer School of Architecture. He is a trained architect, urbanist and systems technologist whose work has focused on the convergence of physical space, human and digital systems within the built environment. He is especially interested in using data as a design tool, how and what we can learn from it and its relationship to the human experience. As Director of the applied research and design J. Max Bond Center for Urban Futures, he leads and directs the Center's transdisciplinary team's research efforts and commissioned projects. The Center's focus is on generating and disseminating new knowledge and strategies to increase spatial design equity, social and cultural engagement and design policy reform.

David Rowe — Executive VP, CAMBA Housing Ventures

Shawn Rickenbacker — Director, J. Max Bond Center for Urban Futures

Steve Lewis — *Keynote Speaker — Design Director, City of Detroit, Central Region

David Rowe — Executive VP, CAMBA Housing Ventures

Steven Lewis is a tireless advocate for social justice and diversity within the field of architecture. In his role as Urban Design Director for the City of Detroit's Central Region, he is helping to shape the vision of present and future development. In addition to being a AIA 2016 Whitney M. Young, Jr. Award recipient, a Loeb Fellow in 2006-2007, and a past President of the National Organization of Minority Architects, Steven has also recently launched a consulting practice – “Thinking Leadership – What we Do...Who we Are” – aimed at assisting clients attain superior outcomes through his engagement. More than anything, Steven is a facilitator of partnerships and alliances between groups and individuals who seek to use architecture and design to effect positive change to our world.

David Rowe — Executive VP, CAMBA Housing Ventures

David A. Rowe is an Executive Vice President for CAMBA/CAMBA Housing Ventures, Inc. Founded in 1977, CAMBA annually provides services to more than 45,000 individuals and families in six core areas: Economic Development; Education and Youth Development; Family Support; Health; Housing; and Legal Services. Responding to a pressing need for permanent, affordable housing, CAMBA Housing Ventures, Inc. – a non-profit development corporation affiliate was established in 2005 to create sustainable and energy-efficient housing for low-income and chronically homeless families and individuals. Since joining CHV in 2008, David has significantly expanded the organization's portfolio to include a total of 2,026 completed and in-progress affordable housing units located throughout NYC. David has over 20 years of experience in affordable housing, as a developer, and a lender in both public and private sectors.